Public Safety Commissioner Boyle Appoints State Police Division Head

Department of Public Safety Commissioner, Leonard C. Boyle, today announced the appointment and promotion of Major Cheryl A. Malloy to the rank of Lieutenant Colonel in the Connecticut State Police Department. Lt. Col Cheryl Malloy will fill the vacancy left by the retirement of Lt. Colonel Ralph Carpenter. She will command the Office of Administrative Services. This promotion is effective, today, Tuesday, February 01, 2005.

Lt. Colonel Malloy has served with the Connecticut State Police since October of 1989. She began her State Police career at the Troop B barracks in North Canaan, and later transferred to Troop L in Litchfield. She soon obtained the position of Detective where she served as a detective with the Statewide Narcotics Task Force and later moved on to the Statewide Organized Crime Investigative Task Force (SOCITF). In August of 1996 Malloy was promoted to Sergeant and returned to Troop L in Litchfield where she served as a Patrol Sergeant, until moving on to the SOCITF Unit as an Executive Officer. In April of 2002, she returned to Troop L, as the Commanding Officer of the Litchfield barracks, having been promoted to the rank of Lieutenant. Malloy was subsequently promoted to the rank of Major and assigned to the Bureau of Training and Support Services in March of 2003. At the time of this most recent promotion, she had been serving as a Major, in the Bureau of Criminal Investigations.

In her new assignment, Lt. Colonel Malloy will command the Office of Administrative Services and will assume responsibility for a major division of the Connecticut State Police Department. The State Police Office of Administrative Services is responsible for functions that include training, planning, support services, selections and investigative support services, facilities, and fleet management. She will also oversee the Bureau of Data Management and Information Technology, Field Technology and Business Development Services.

Lt. Colonel Malloy earned a Bachelor of Science Degree in Law Enforcement from Western New England College.
